OUR ALMA MATER

Forward Naples!
Make her maples
Quiver with our cheer.
Let our rally
Stir the valley,
Victory is near!
Keep the Green and White advancing
Let our colors fly;
So we'll honor Alma Mater,
Dear old Naples High

Forward Naples!
Forward Naples!
Tally one for her.
Cut another notch for Naples,
Let us not deter.
For her honor
We are striving,
Her we'll glorify.
Shout aloud for Alma Mater,
Dear old Naples High.

~~Indefinite~~

Dear Luck, I want to send you a letter of love & sympathy
 the

that I have been thinking of
 for some time
 now. I have been thinking of you and your

Go forth

Mr. Thomas welcomes freshmen, S. Moore and R. Rennoldson, to their new homeroom.

Mrs. Gray distributes textbooks to A. Christian and G. Steinmetz.

Look not mournfully into the Past; it comes not back again. Wisely improve the Present; it is thine."

"Go forth to meet the shadowy Future without fear and with a manly heart."

Many a manly heart beats under the striking class jackets of our Freshman Class as each shoulders increased responsibilities and faces seemingly difficult ordeals such as Initiation.

"Improve the Present." Now, guided by our teachers, we are attempting to do this, each one in his own way, and each to his own degree. As we leave high school, the measure of our improvement leaves with us. Then we will not regret the past, but stand prepared to approach new horizons.

to meet the

B. Clawson and S. Moore bow down to sophomore, B. Warner, as G. King struggles with his books during Freshman Initiation.

D. Donley and J. Ippolito receive their locker combinations from Mr. Moore.

E. Richmond and C. Clark examine with approval their newly arrived class jackets.

Junior High is one of the most crucial periods in educational development, the time when seventh graders adjust to a completely different system. Their world is no longer restricted to the one room, one teacher, one group of the grades, but expands to fit the new pattern of high school.

F. Savage, L. Bush, and C. Halvorsen watch as Miss Sanders points out one of our neighboring Finger Lakes.

Junior High classes are first

Mr. Miller provides eighth-graders, K. Hawks and D. Smith, with a well rounded mathematical background in preparation for high school.

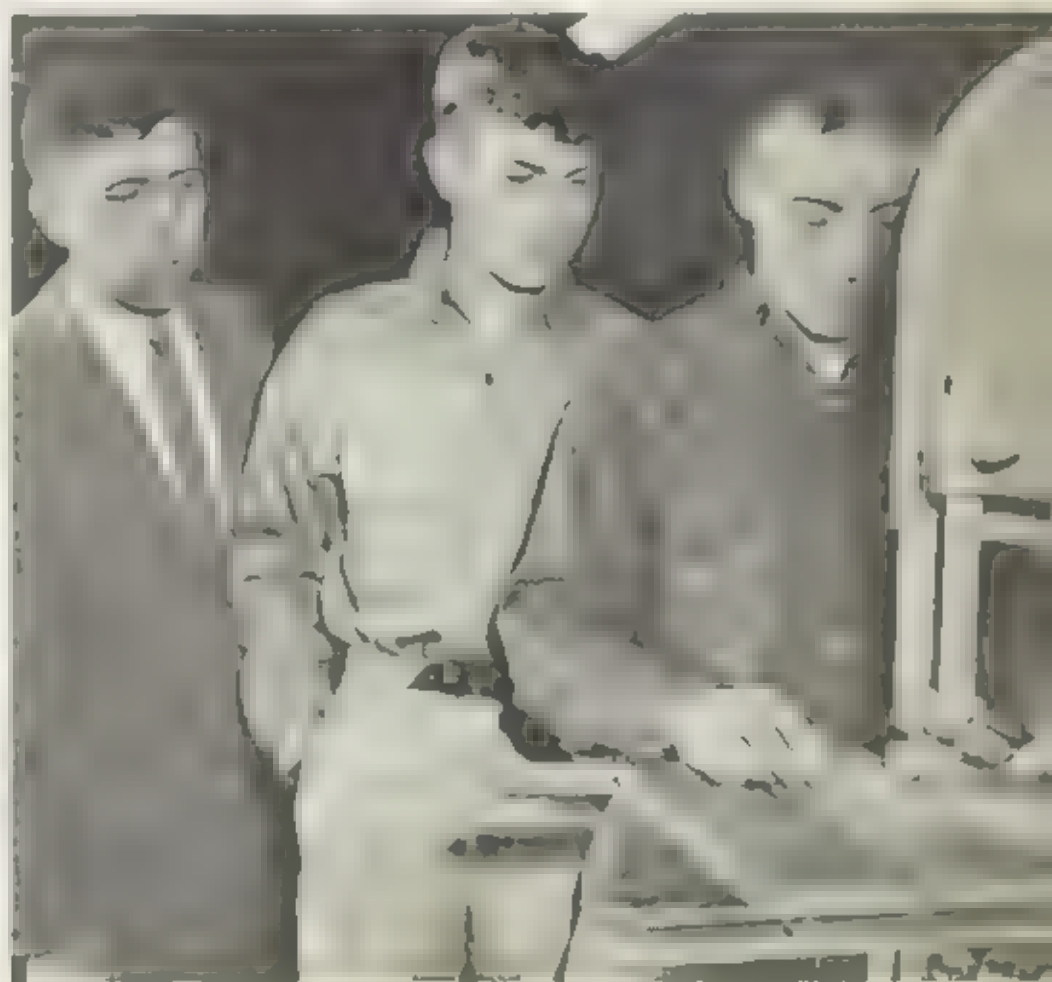

Mr. Kreydt and class members B. Clawson, J. Chadwick and G. Steinmetz watch B. Woodat conjugate a verb during Latin I.

steps toward broader horizons

A Latin I student, Mr. Kreydt, shows to his pupils the value of the Latin word "Kreydt" in the Latin language.

Mr. Kreydt, Latin teacher, supervises as J. Guile and C. Wison operate the typewriter.

Mr. Schultz, vocational agriculture teacher, points out an important paragraph to D. Wheaton as R. Barkley takes notes.

Sophomores combine vocational skills

The Sophomores take a lively interest in many activities which add variety to their school life. Their ambition and zeal were aided in their numerous projects.

"Now, where'd I put that cover slip?" Mr. Cook helps members of his biology class. B. Haraggy, D. Preston, E. Martin, and B. Stone prepare slides for staining.

"Watch those vowels." R. Bruce helps J. Schutts, N. Harrington, M. Morse, and H. Schwangle brush up on their French II vocabulary.

ACTIVITIES

ORGANIZATION	. . .	16
ATHLETICS	. . .	32

Varied activities mean broad horizons for students of N.C.S. We do not limit our efforts to study but participate in many worthwhile extracurricular activities which add to our knowledge and help us develop new skills.

Exploring new fields builds personality and character as we serve our school and classmates. Students with creative ability find in working on school publications an opportunity to gain literary experience as well as practice in operating the office machines, the typewriter and the mimeoscope. In music, even the less gifted of us find enjoyment which provides a lifelong source of recreation. In sports, too, we learn cooperation and teamwork as well as the art of winning and losing gracefully. Membership in any organization teaches us to accept responsibility and to work with others, preparing us for our future roles as citizens and voters.

A government for the students, of the students and by the students of Naples Central School is represented by the Student Council. Problems involving relations among teachers, classes, and organizations are voiced at its weekly meetings. All dates for money-making events must be passed by its members who have been elected to represent their respective groups.

This year the Council members have sponsored a German Supper to finance the billboard project, initiated two years ago. Since the pencil machine has been repaired, pencils inscribed with "Naples Central School" seem to appear in every student's pocket. Councilmen also render valuable service to our school by acting as monitors, promoting scholastic achievement, and influencing the choice of assembly programs.

One of the highest honors in high school and one to carry proudly through later life is membership in the National Honor Society. Its members, who are selected as outstanding school citizens exemplifying high ideals of character, service, leadership, and scholarship, follow a path to ever higher achievement.

New members tapped at this year's initiation ceremony, B. Conrad, S. Harrington, T. Baader, B. Cermak, D. Eddy, and G. Lincoln were proud and happy to receive their pins, small golden keystones upon which appears the torch of knowledge and the letters C. S. L. S. for the initial letters of the four stations.

YEARBOOK

A. Hawks and N. Schenk stand by as S. Standish and M. Morse type copy sheets for the "Neapolitan".

The Neapolitan is extremely proud of the "medalist" rating received last year from Columbia University and hopes to make the 1960 edition equally good. Housed previously in Mrs. Gray's classroom, at midyear we moved to our own "headquarters", the converted girls' shower room, complete with marble walls. There the lights burned late as deadline approached.

To help finance the book we sponsored a pancake supper and a very successful bake sale as well as a series of roller skating parties, the profits from which reduce the cost to the individual student.

M. Hawks, B. Cermak, and M. Kidd admire the Medalist award given by Columbia University.

B. Conrad, L. Standish, and B. Reed discuss the yearbook layout with C. Kidd.

NEWS STAFF

The members of News Staff devote their energies to reporting on all school happenings which are news-worthy. The "Naples Central School Record" a section of the "Naples Record" is the work of these students who meet once a week for assignments and tips on journalism from their adviser, Mrs. Dean. Several times a year, the "Tower Tattler" the school newspaper, is published by the News Staff members and sold to the student body. All these activities are a good experience for these students and for any who enjoy journalism.

The Bohemian atmosphere of the tower room inspires newsmen, B. Conrad, L. Standish, and S. Standish as they add finishing touches to the "Tower Tattler"

The culmination of individual effort is found in the soloist contests in April and May while the Senior Band climaxes the year with a performance in the group contests.

Under the direction of Mr. Moore, the instrumental department provides opportunity for all those who gain pleasure through music to explore new pathways to musical enjoyment.

Music all about us . . .

Chorus membership supplements the schedule of many well-rounded students. Within the choruses themselves are many fields of interest: solo work, trios, quartets, county and state contests, interscholastic festivals, and our own school concerts.

The Senior Chorus presented a Christmas program in December which included narration, singing, and colored slides. A spring operetta was another addition to the traditional chorus concerts.

prepares for the future

F.F.A. Club—The Future Farmers of America in our school is a very active and well organized group. It consists of boys of high school age who are interested in the improvements of agricultural methods. One of the main projects of the club under the advisership of Mr. Schultz is their crop demonstration to find the best materials for good yields of crops in our area. This project helps our boys learn the best methods of farming.

Besides the crop demonstration our F.F.A. Club has their annual F.F.A. Fair, basketball and softball teams. Our club members also take field trips to farms in the area to see how farmers use different practices in good farming methods. F.F.A. boys take trips to Canada and the New York State F.F.A. Camp. We have had boys who enter contests. L. Meehan won a calf this year by writing the best essay on "Why I Would Like a Registered Calf."

One of the less obvious yet very vital tasks in N. C. S. is the care of the library. Shelving books, cataloging cards and arranging displays are only a few of the numerous jobs in which Miss Shay is assisted by the Library Club. Because of their interest in books, its members start early in their school career to increase their knowledge and appreciation of literature, besides devoting many hours of effort to enable our library to function smoothly.

Activities brighten school life.

Indications of our growing interest in extra curricular pursuit of academic subjects are Science Club and Latin Club.

Members of Science Club work on projects in such varied fields as rocketry, photography, astronomy and electronics. The club assists in the presentation of the annual Science Fair in which all science students explore new horizons in their chosen field.

The Latin Club looks forward to the Roman Banquet, its chief activity, at which all members, in classic costume, enjoy a lavish repast in the Roman style with first year students as "slaves."

At Christmas the club's choral group provides unique entertainment with a program of carols and popular songs sung in Latin.

G. Fleischman and G. Seager were chosen as delegates from Naples to Boys State for their outstanding qualities of citizenship.

Mr. Brown's sixth grade published its first edition of the "School Chronicle" this year.

M. Kidd, representative of our school in the Senior All-State Choir, displays a recording of the concert at Monticello.

Mr. John Vierhile and son, Bill, contemplate contents of this year's ad as R. Harrington and B. Woodard present sales talk.

G. Fritz, G. Fleischman, A. Hawkins, M. Burnett, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas, and Mr. Schlappi anxiously await the annual Junior-Senior Banquet

Flowers add pleasant fragrance to the banquet table of Miss Shay, L. Fox, Mrs. Gray, H. Johnson, Mrs. Morse, Mr. Hunt, S. Harrington, and T. Baader

Brothers, D. and M. Schutz, meet at the punch bowl, M. Peck and J. Little expectantly await the liquid refreshment

Lasting memories – our Junior Prom

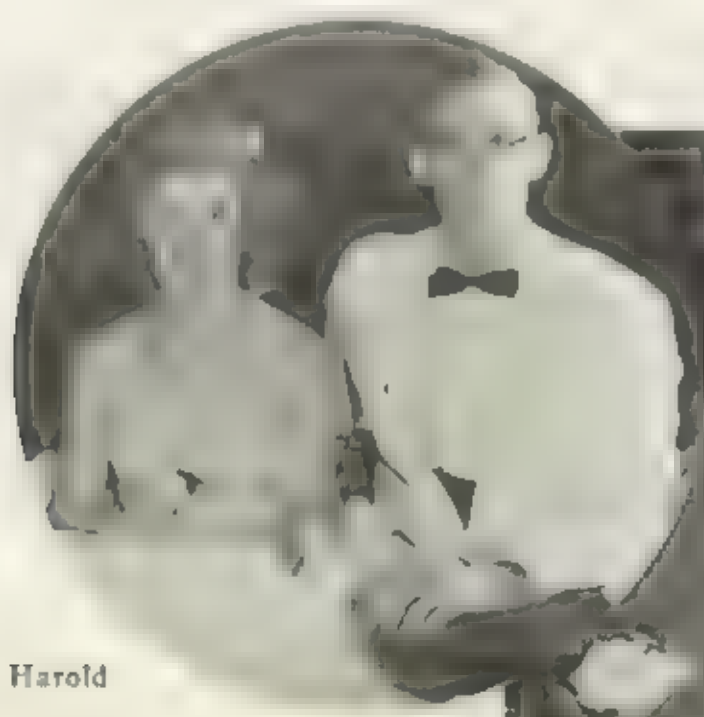

The Naples Central School gym was transformed into the mystical island of Hawaii for the Junior Prom. The juniors used "Hawaiian Sunset" for a theme and built an island for the king and queen, a grass hut for the punch bowl, and scattered exotic flowers everywhere.

The music was more varied this year because Arlene Hawkins and Lewis Fisher entertained with a duet, "Graduation Day." Frank Fennel's orchestra provided the dreamy music for dancing and was so well-liked that the juniors asked him to play for their Senior Ball at Christmas time.

This was one of the most enjoyable Junior Proms ever to be held in our school and the memory of it will be treasured by all those who attended.

H. Johnson and B. Moose are proud and happy to learn that they have been chosen by their classmates to reign over the Junior Prom.

The royal couple flash smiles our way as they dance by. They're really digging the beat!

in undefeated season.

"The Celtics of Section Five." That's what the newspapers called our Big Green as they defeated Bolivar to cinch the Class C sectional championship. Teamwork and skill is the formula for the fast moving, sharp-shooting tactics which carried the team through an undefeated season. Even such adversaries as Class A Wayland and AA Canandaigua could not prevail against the hard-working, quick-thinking squad which brought Coach Clark his fifth sectional trophy in seven seasons.

The cheerleaders, as always, helped to inspire the enthusiasm which followed the team throughout the season with new cheers as well as the "old standards" and a new mascot, Henry Savage. The girls were reinforced by a lively group of fellows, christened the Pep Band, who added excitement and entertainment to the games and rallies with "cool" renditions of such number as "Time Out Samba," "Sweet Georgia Brown," and of course, "When the Saints Come Marching In."

pave the way for success.

For the boys in junior high the basketball team is a good way to let out excess energy and to gain practice and experience so that they will be able to carry on the championship trend of our varsity team.

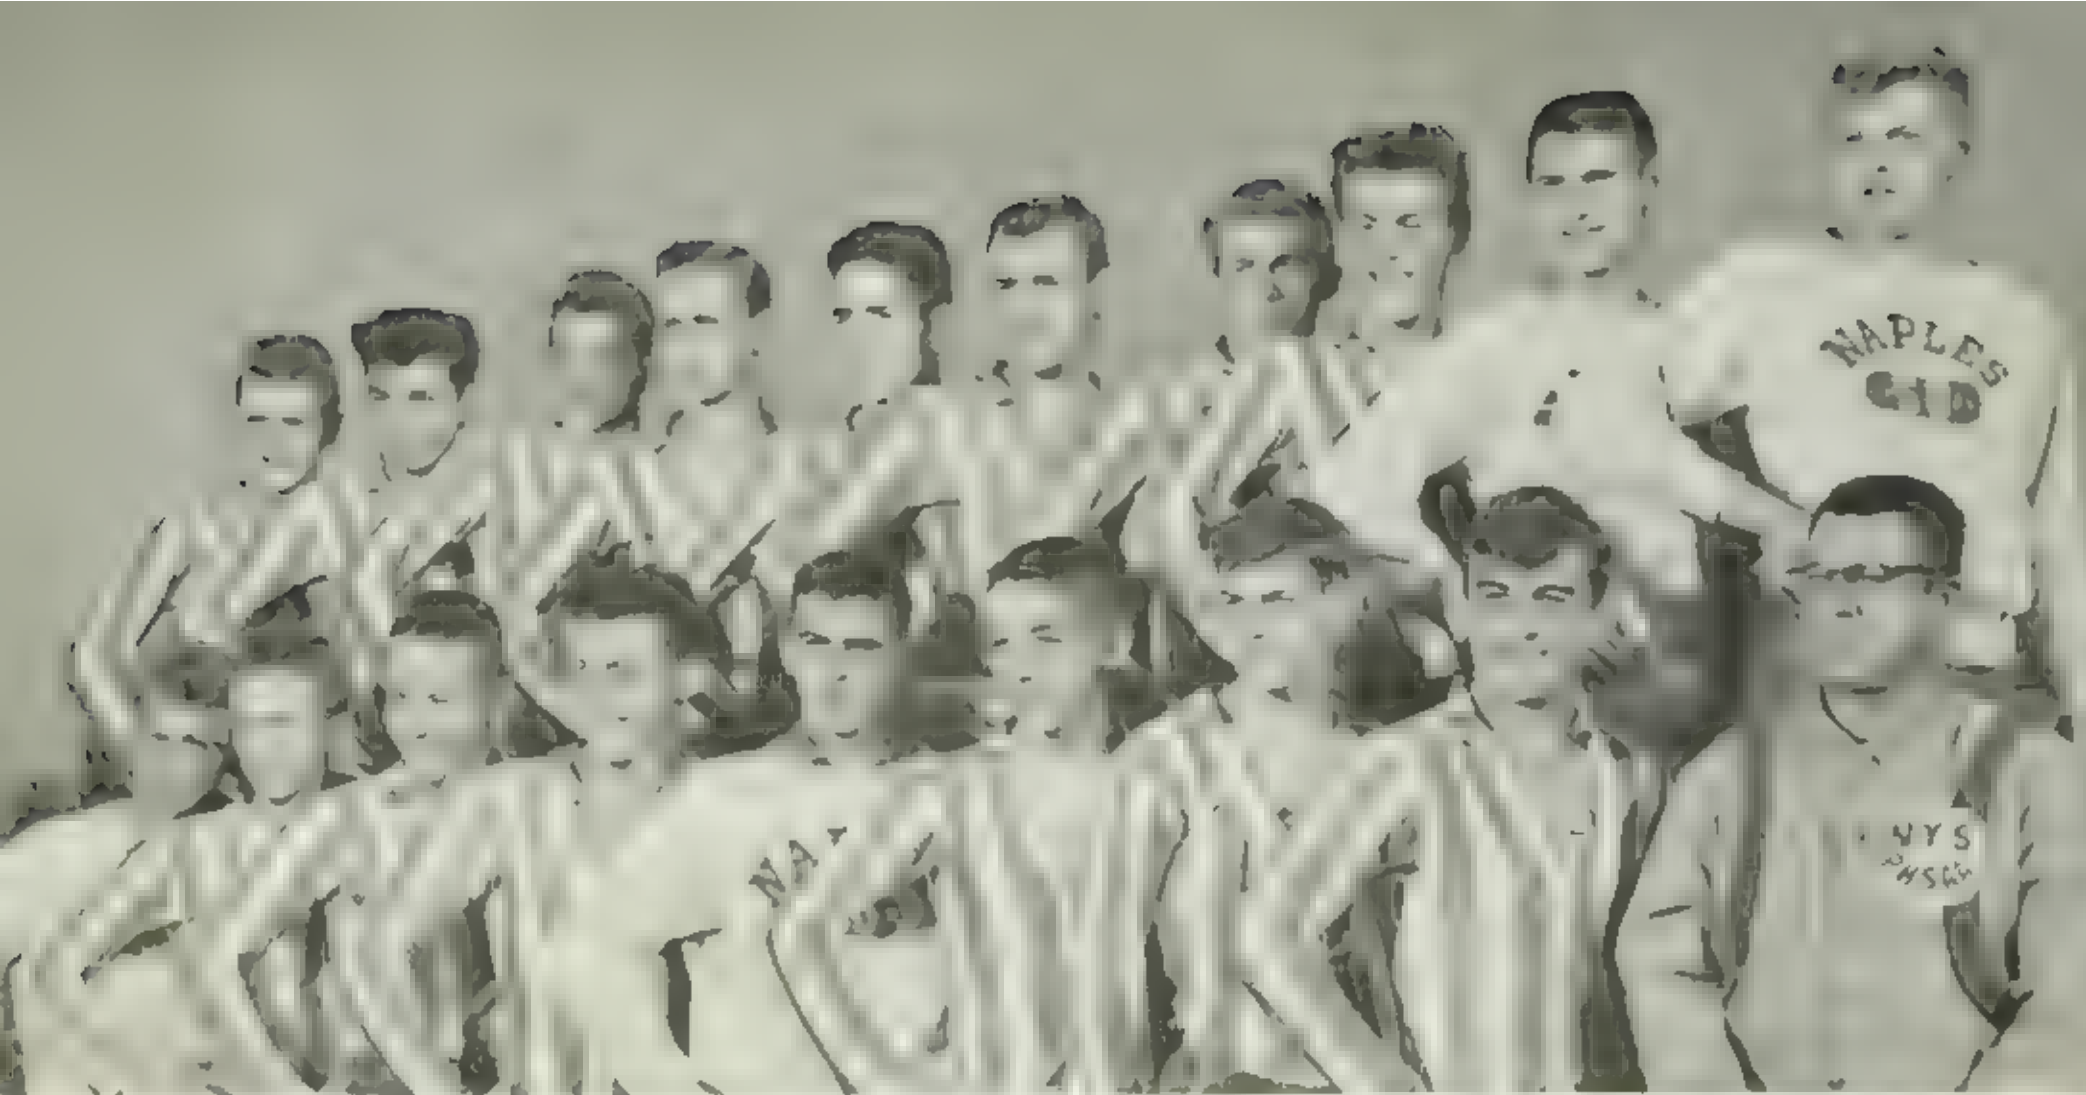

This year they had a very successful season meeting only two defeats and were co-champions with Waterloo.

Our soccer team did an excellent job. They won five games and lost three during the season winning the Finger Lakes League championship. This entitled them to enter the Section 5 Class "C" soccer competition, which brought our school another championship, another trophy.

We had a fine baseball team, but for the first time in three years they did not win the league championship. They won five games and lost three.

Sports-minded girls

Girls have been participating in sports to a much greater extent, recently. The swimming pool has been the cause of much of this increased interest since every girl in high school swims once a week in gym class.

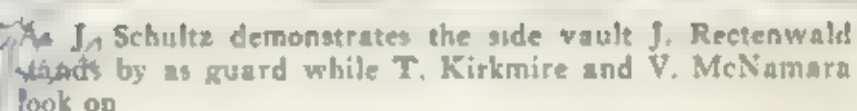

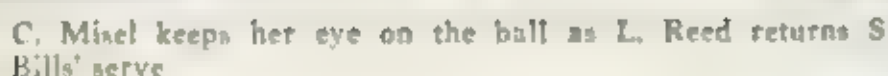

Basketball and volleyball are the main sports in girls' intramurals, in which organized teams compete regularly. This type of competition teaches everyone the art of good sportsmanship, which should be the basis of all activities—academic and extra-curricular.

Each year marks our progress toward new horizons. Freshmen entered a new, exciting but demanding world where new privileges meant added responsibilities. With new confidence the sophomores made their presence felt in sports and activities as they trod eagerly in the footsteps of the upperclassmen. This year the juniors began seriously to contemplate the future, realizing that their goal was not far distant. Plans for college, for later life, require careful consideration and preparation. The Senior Class, like all seniors on the eve of graduation, looks both to the future and to the past. Their memories of N.C.S. are many—of class activities, exciting athletic events, friends and classmates, and of the people who helped them to achieve their goal, the teachers and administration.

Forward leads a new pathway to the future. We are a generation which has grown up with the atom. We are graduating at the dawn of a new decade and will live in the world of 2,000 A.D. What lies over the horizon will be what we make it—our life, our new world.

GREETINGS:

We are very proud of our Neapolitan. It is one of the outstanding yearbooks in Central New York. The educational experiences gained by our students from the production of this fine book are invaluable. Within a span of a few years the memories that this book will renew will make it a more prized possession. Time moves on; we face new experiences and meet new people; but this book is a remembrance of the people that pass along our pathways today.

Sincerely,

Llewellyn U. Thomas

Mr. Sutter, our guidance teacher, gives students advice about their school programs and helps them choose their future occupations. He administers examinations and aids upperclassmen in preparing for higher education—exploring pathways to new horizons with them.

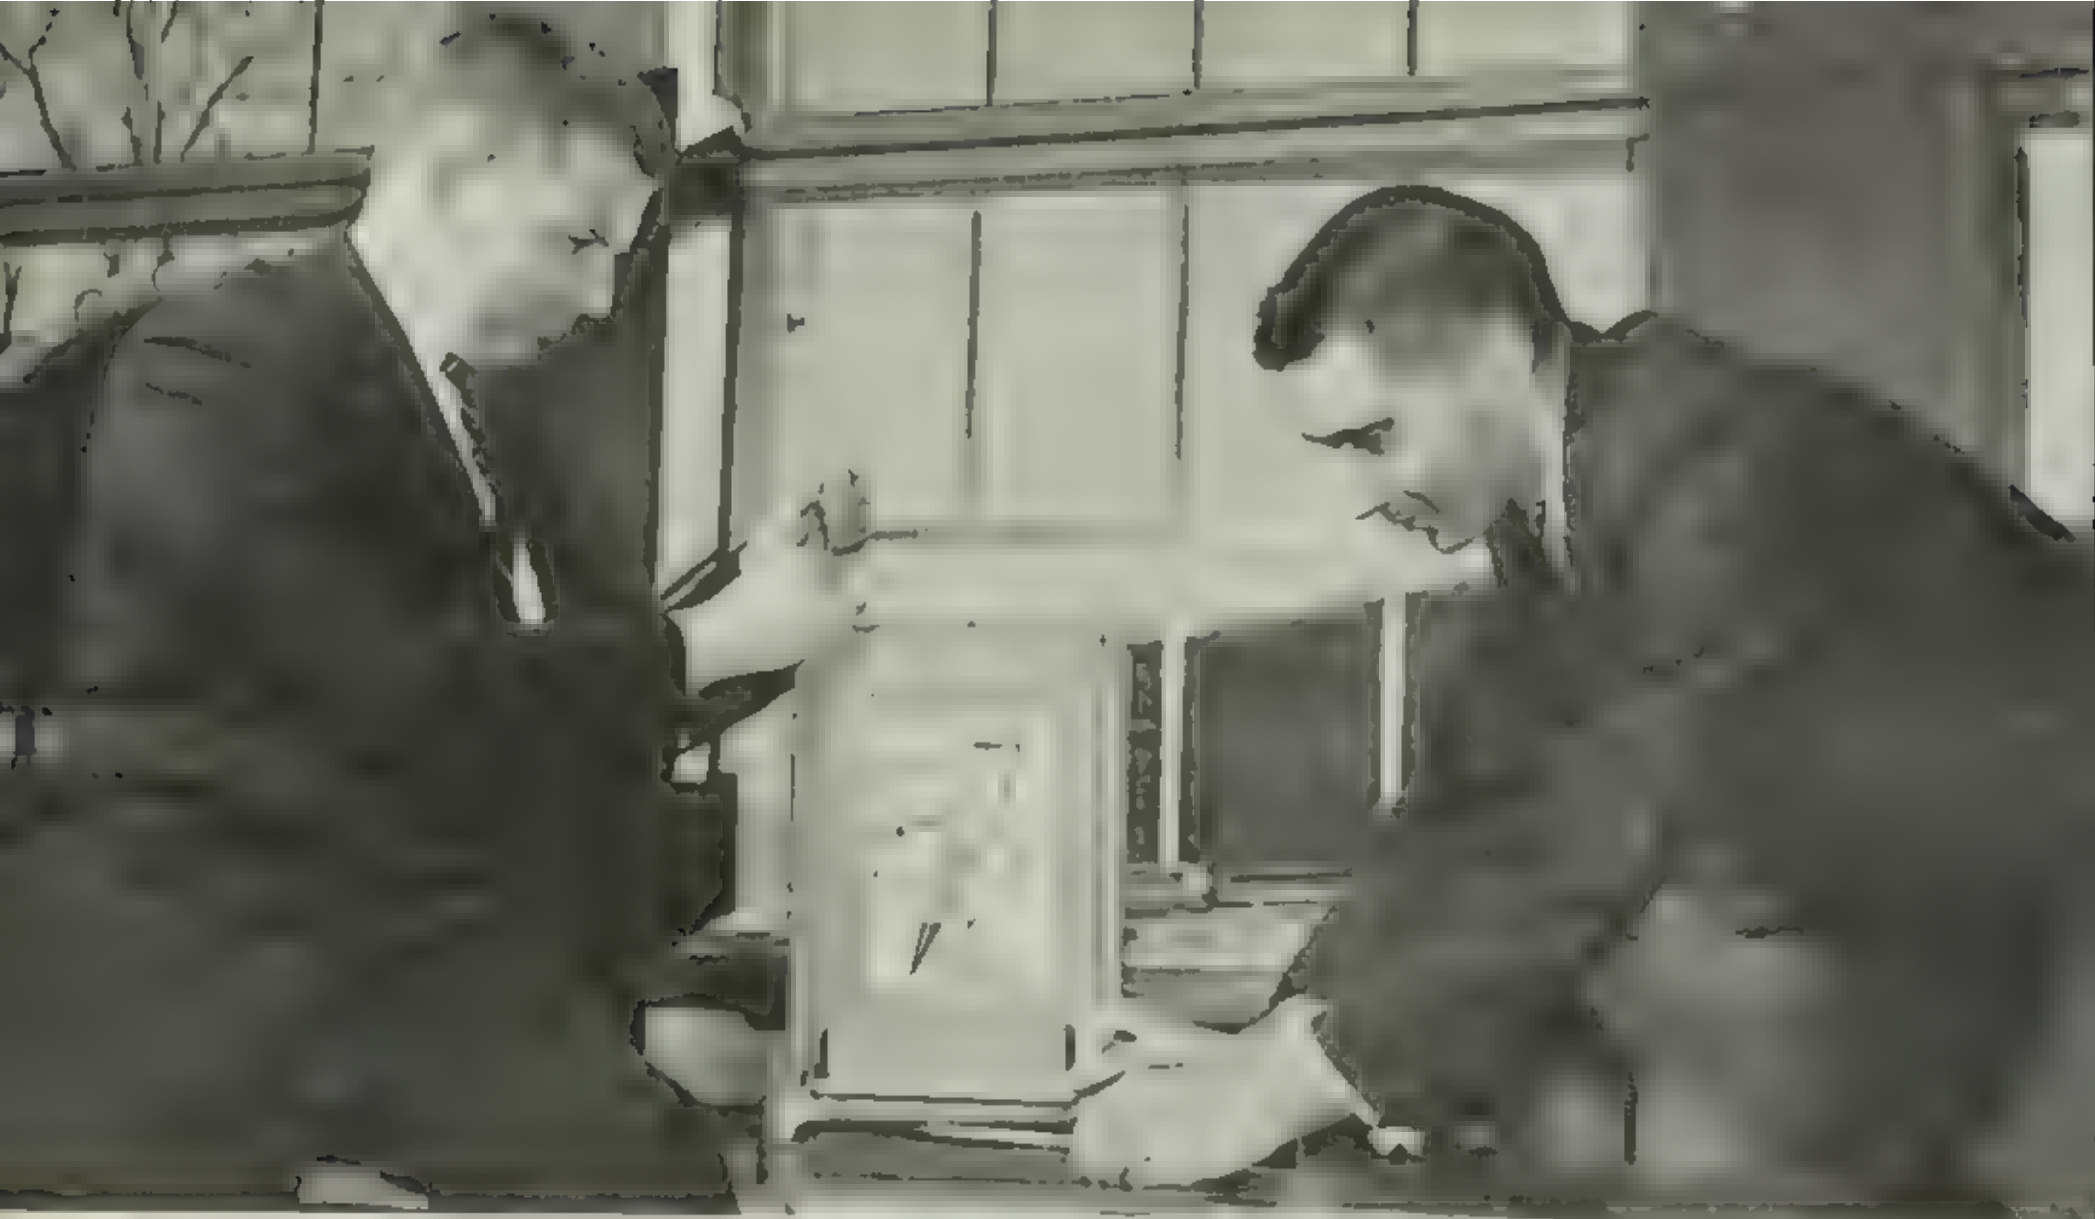

Mr. Miller points out the carburetor to C. Kidd and A. Newman.

Mr. Sutter smiles with approval as he reviews the students' scores in the Iowa Examinations.

Mr. Miller, driver education teacher, instructs his pupils in good driving habits. Students have "on the road" practice as well as class study of basic fundamentals on the useful skills such as changing a tire.

Mr. Lucas and Mr. Baer repair the broken pencil machine

Teachers help strengthen our minds . . .

Mrs. Gray and Mrs. Dean, compare style techniques of the Neapolitan with those of the Tower Tattler

Mr. Baer, our high school history teacher and Mr. Lucas, who teaches junior high citizenship education, are co-advisers of the Student Council. They are always ready to discuss elements in history or current events with interested students.

Mrs. Gray, whose French and algebra classes look forward to review classes (and delicious cakes!) advises the Yearbook Staff and Honor Society in addition to her duties as vice-principal.

Mrs. Dean, who teaches high school English and journalism supervises the production of the Senior Play and is adviser to News Staff, as well as literary adviser to the Yearbook Staff.

Our Latin teacher, Mr. Kreydt, who also teaches two junior high English courses, is always ready to lend his help to a group, particularly the Latin Club to which he is adviser.

Mr. Cook and Miss Bass test the new geiger counter.

Mr. Kreydt looks over music for the Latin Choir which he directs.

Miss Bass teaches chemistry and general science as well as co-advising Science Club. Her outlines, better known as "Miss Bass's book" are faithfully copied by the chemistry classes.

Mr. Cook has a varied program consisting of earth science, biology, geometry, physics, and trigonometry. In his capacity of adviser to Science Club he is always willing to help students work on special projects and encourage scientific interest.

Miss Shay shows Library Club members the difference between author and subject cards in the card catalog

Miss Shay is our librarian who locates that book we want and helps us in our research work. Besides visiting the grades on "Library Day", she encourages interest in literature by advising the Library Club. She joins Mr. Schlappi in advising the Senior Class

Miss Benning and Coach Clark look over the book as they review the Big Green scores.

Advisers get into the act. Mr. Schlappi trades senior candy for Mr. King's sophomore pin.

... and guide us toward our goals

Miss Benning's enthusiasm and sense of humor make sports and swimming enjoyable for her girls' physical education classes. In addition, she devotes much time to coaching the Varsity, J. V., and Junior High cheerleaders.

Mr. Clark, in addition to his duties as boys' physical education instructor, coaches the soccer, volleyball, and basketball teams. His varsity basketball team went undefeated to its seventh league championship this year.

Mr. Schlappi teaches industrial arts and wood shop, mechanical drawing and ceramics. As co-adviser to the seniors he has supervised many class activities and helped with set constructions for the play.

Mr. King, in charge of the Commercial Department, is known for his humor. He coached the Junior Varsity basketball squad and served as adviser to the Sophomore Class.

Mrs. Wilkes teaches vocal music and directs our three choruses. Her flair for originality has inspired the Senior Chorus to try out new ideas with great success.

Mrs. Morse is in charge of the Art Department. Her artistic ability is in great demand at Ball and Prom time, Senior Play time, and so on through the year. How she manages to advise all these projects in addition to teaching a full schedule of art classes is a mystery to all, but her success is self evident.

Mr. Moore is our instrumental instructor, co-adviser of the Junior Class, and junior high basketball coach. He is always willing to give advice to students as they prepare solos and ensembles for county and state music contests.

Putting angels wings is only one of many plans which Mrs. Wilkes, Mrs. Morse, and Mr. Moore must carry out for the Christmas program.

Mrs. Schultz teaches home economics and seventh grade general science. Advising two active groups, the F.H.A. and the Junior Class, keeps her busy.

Mr. Schultz, our agriculture teacher, has coached the F.F.V. basketball team through another successful year. F.F.A. projects such as crop demonstrations and the F.F.V. Fair demand and receive expert guidance from Mr. Schultz.

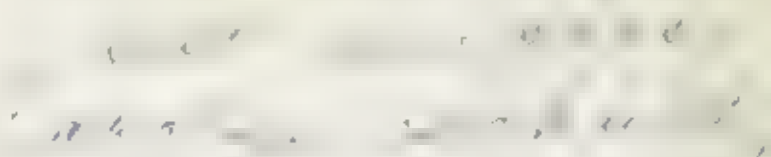

Miss Sanders teaches junior high social studies and English and is the adviser of the seventh grade. Hobbies of her trade add interest to her classes.

Mr. Miller, eighth grade adviser, teaches English and mathematics. Under his guidance, the eighth grade has already begun their fund raising campaign.

Mrs. McKenna is our school nurse. Teaching health, checking excuses, giving exams, planning clinics, and treating cuts and bruises occupy most of her time. She is always anxious to help students interested in nursing.

Here's a handy team! Mr. and Mrs. Schultz find that many of their activities go hand in hand horizon expands

In the guise of Cleopatra and Egyptian mummies we began our high school career under the iron hand of the sophomores. Surviving this ordeal, we fell into the regular school routine. As the year continued we added to our treasury by means of several class projects. The high point in our freshman year was the arrival of our black and white class jackets which gave us the nickname, "skunks." This year has given us memories of good times and useful experience which we shall build on throughout our high school years.

High School opens new world for Sophomores

J. Schultz, Secretary; S. Bills, Treasurer; N. Harrington, Vice-President; H. Schwingle, President

The Class of '62 started its second year of high school with the education and enlightenment of the freshmen. Catching our breath after initiation, we helped to augment the class coffers by selling refreshments at two basketball games.

A highlight of the year was choosing class rings whose arrival we eagerly anticipate.

During our first years of high school we have had many enjoyable experiences and are looking forward to our years as upperclassmen.

Handwritten note:
 We have been very successful in our efforts to raise money for the class ring. We have received many donations from the community and our friends. We are very grateful for their support and are looking forward to the arrival of our class rings.

As the days and months pass, the Class of 1961 realizes how much there is to be done before we graduate.

We started the year by having our third consecutive International Supper. This proved very successful and added greatly to our treasury.

In September we received our class rings and could be seen proudly displaying them to all who would stop to inspect.

With our helpful advisers, Mr. Moore and Mrs. Schultz, we are looking forward to our senior year and graduation carrying with us the memory of the knowledge we gained as juniors.

OUR ALMA MATER

Forward Naples!
Make her maples
Quiver with our cheer.
Let our rally
Stir the valley,
Victory is near!
Keep the Green and White advancing
Let our colors fly;
So we'll honor Alma Mater,
Dear old Naples High

Forward Naples!
Forward Naples!
Tally one for her.
Cut another notch for Naples,
Let us not deter,
For her honor
We are striving,
Her we'll glorify.
She's proud for Alma Mater,
Dear old Naples High
